6. Based upon the evidence presented at the hearing, the court finds and concludes that firearm and toolmark identification meets the Frye standards for reliability and is generally accepted in the field of forensic science.

The court finds and concludes that Zachary Carr, a KBI forensic scientist, is qualified to give expert testimony in the field of firearm and tool mark identification, based upon his education, training and experience. The court further finds that the bases for his scientific opinions are generally accepted as reliable and based upon a scientifically valid methodology. The court further finds that his testimony in the field of firearm and toolmark identification is relevant and will assist the jury.

WHEREFORE the court finds that defendant's Motion in Limine should be and is denied. IT IS SO ORDERED.
